ARCHITECTURAL DESCRIPTION:

This house appears to be a total reconstruction. It consists of a small 1-1/2 story, 3 bay wide side gable house with knee wall framing resting on a stone foundation. Attached to the rear is apparently a completely new 2-story addition on a concrete foundation, three times the size of the main house. There are 2 huge new brick exterior chimneys, one attached to the side of the main house, one to the back of the addition. There are all new windows, new wood shingle siding, and new flat wood trim. There is no visible exterior historic fabric, which makes interpretation of the form questionable. The house lacks historic architectural integrity.
