Search Results

After a search is conducted, items appear in clusters. Clustered items are based on matching title and author fields. Items of various formats, years, and publishers can be clustered together if their title and author match. A list of formats and quantity of items in each format appears below the cover.

If items are not grouped together, it is because there is a difference in the title and/or author field. For example, the inclusion or exclusion of a subtitle will prevent the items from being grouped in one cluster.

In the search above, for The Fellowship of the Ring by J.R.R. Tolkein, the items within the first cluster look like this:

Sometimes, differences between clusters are very minor, or not readily visible in the Commonwealth Catalog format.

View Options

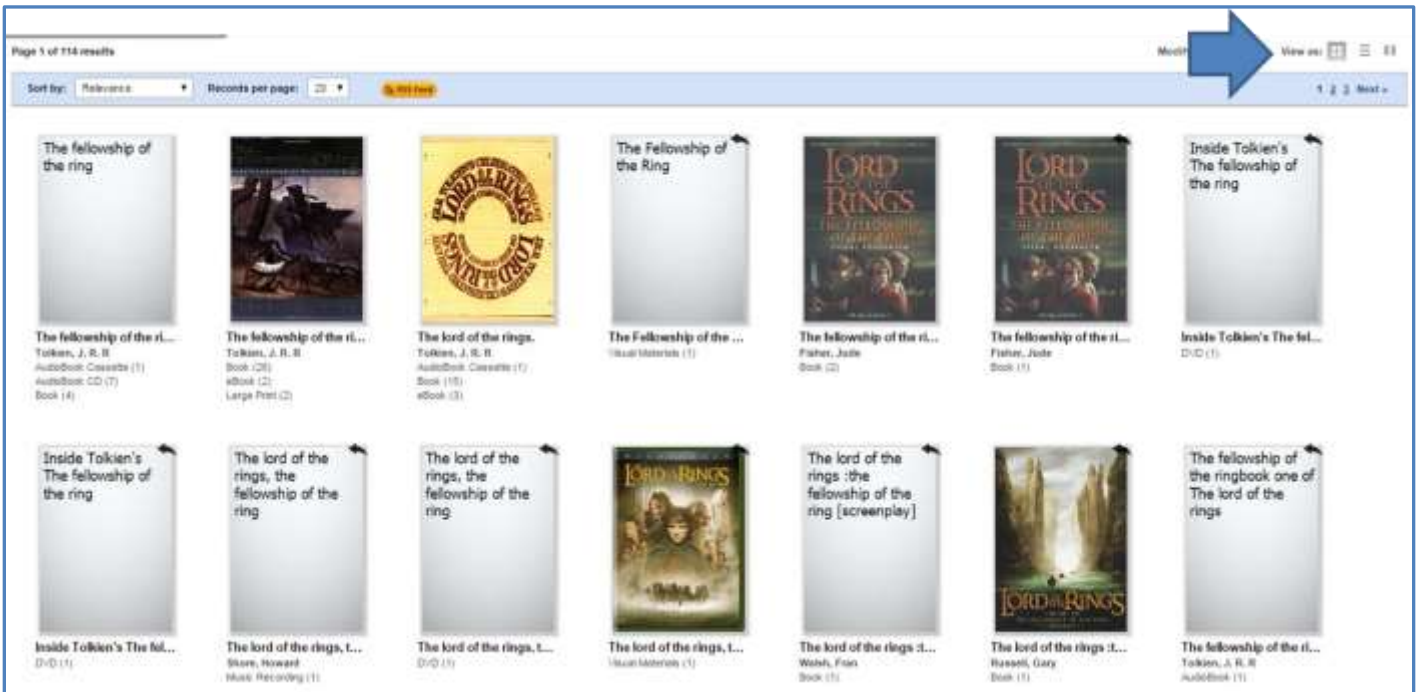

Search results are available in three different view options: Gallery, List, and Grid.

The Commonwealth Catalog defaults to the Gallery View. Both patrons and staff can change the view option at any time by clicking the "View as" icons in the upper right side of the search.

Gallery View

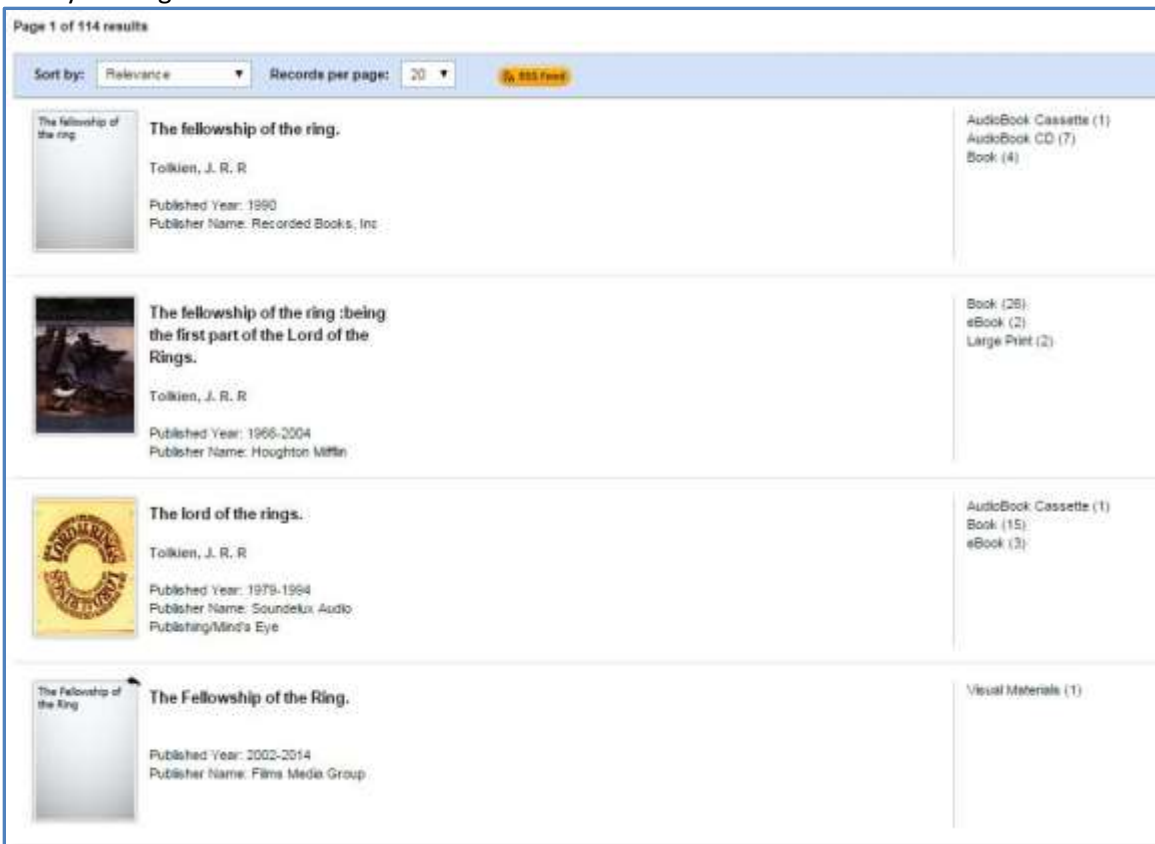

The Commonwealth Catalog defaults to the Gallery View. This view uses cover images when available and displays only information about the format and quantity of items in clusters.

Gallery View search results. "View as" options in upper right

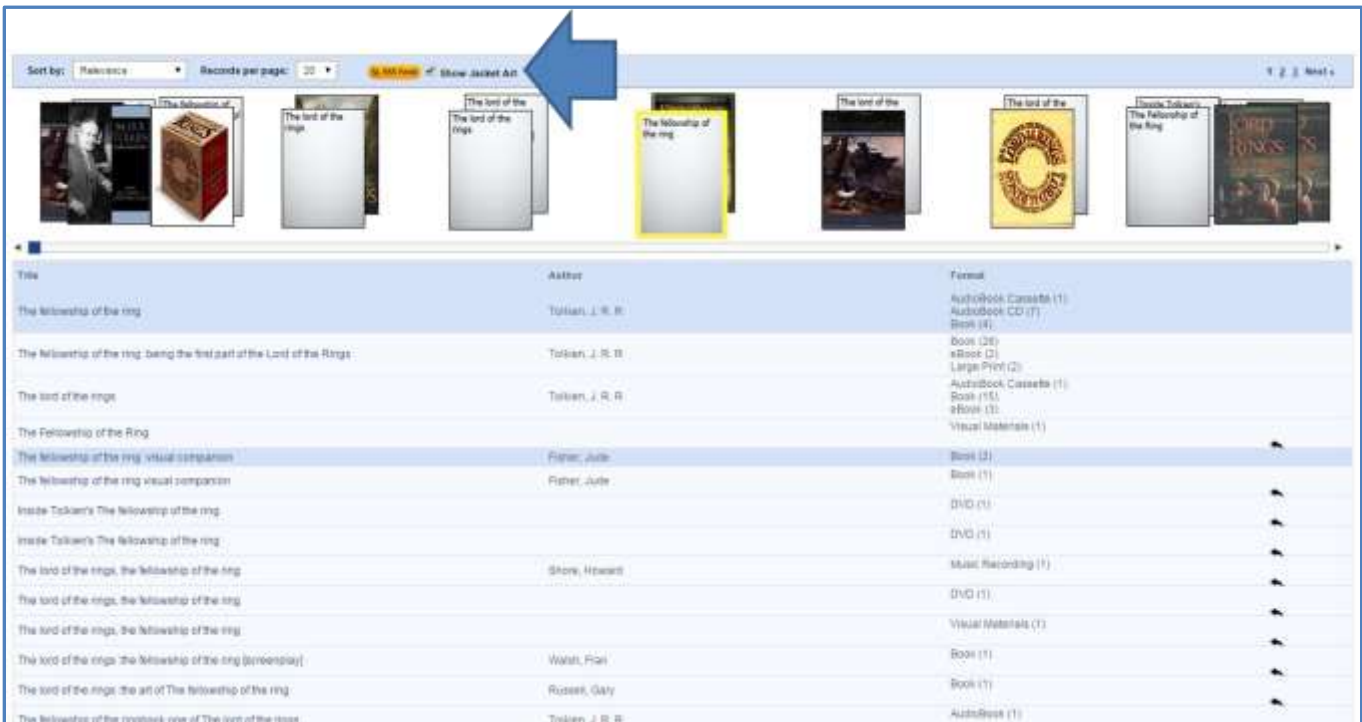

List view

The list view displays some additional information for each cluster, including the range of publication years, and some publisher information. Fewer clusters are visible at one time in this view. This view is similar to a more traditional library catalog view.

Grid view

The Grid View can be displayed with or without jacket art. Simply check or uncheck the box labeled 'Show Jacket Art' to select your preference. This view displays the clusters in text-based lists with the same information as the Gallery View.

Grid View without jacket art

Using the Grid View without jacket art fits the most item clusters onto the page at any one time. Though it is less enticing for browsing.
